

As a subscriber to XM radio satellite service, I would like to say that I very much value their traffic and weather service. I travel a great deal and being able to find instant reports is invaluable. Truckers, RV'ers, tourists of all type value this service as do local residents who increasingly cannot get timely updates due to reductions in locally originated programming. I ask that you not allow traditional broadcasters to stifle this service. They are free to compete ... but with so many owned by a few interests they have little reason to want to be competitive do they?

Sincerely,

Peter Crawl
